

City Carries Joint Services Load, Report Says

By CARROLL WILSON

A closely held study report yet to be made public but compiled by City Manager George Louder indicates through three statistical analyses that in the areas where the City of Canyon and Randall County are sharing services the city is footing the bulk of the bill.

The study report recommends a contract covering all extended services by each entity be drawn up. If a contract cannot be negotiated, the report states, Louder recommends the city withdraw the services it now provides.

The study is a report requested some time ago by city commissioners and could portend a widening of the chasm between the city and the county on providing services to taxpayers.

A rift between the two governmental bodies has been obvious and came before the public several times in recent years over sharing of costs for providing a dump ground.

More recently, the rift took another turn when county commissioners expressed reluctance to purchase a $30,000 fire truck for the city. The city had requested the truck on the basis that since the city fire department fights fires in Randall County the equipment is needed almost solely for county fire protection.

It was following a report to city commissioners by Louder that the county seemed reluctant to purchase the fire engine that the city fathers instructed him to prepare the report on all shared services which involve the city and county.

The bulky document obtained by The News has been circulated to city commissioners.

In his study, Louder eyed the following services: Dispatching service, which is provided for city policemen and firemen by the county sheriff's office.

Jail facilities, which are provided for the city by Randall County.

Fire service, which is provided by the city fire department for Randall County rural residents.

Library service, which is provided by the city for all area residents.

Solid waste disposal, which is provided by the city for all area residents.

Louder applies three statistical analysis techniques in trying to determine who is paying how much for what service in the above areas of cooperation.

"The analysis can lead one only to the inescapable conclusion that the extension of services by the City as compared to those extended by the county represents a considerable financial disadvantage from the City's position," the report states.

Louder applied statistical techniques on the five services based on use by each entity, the cost of providing the service and cost if the services shared were duplicated by each entity.

"The analysis based on use indicates a substantial difference between the cost incurred by the City and that of the County," the report states. "The analysis based on cost of providing the extension of service to the other is related in its close approximation to that cost projected by use."

Following his statistical analysis of the services and his conclusions, Louder's report lists his recommendations.

"It is my recommendation that the City of Canyon and Randall County work toward the establishment of an agreement for the continuation of the extension of services based on a contract using as a criteria the amount of participation or use each entity makes of the extended service," the report says. "The contract as I envision it should be based on a business like approach that a percentage of use of a service desired by a unit of government should be paid for based upon that percentage."

The contract, Louder says, (See CITY, page 10)

Wheat Harvest Underway Here

The dryland wheat is ready for harvest in Randall County and the combines took to the fields late last week to begin bringing in what could be a record wheat crop. Irrigated wheat is not expected to be cut for another 10 days.

Bicentennial Events Anticipated Drawing Little Money, Could Die

America may celebrate its 200th birthday in 1976 but for Texans and local residents an anticipated series of events and programs supposed to begin four years before that date may not materialize.

Dr. Duane Guy, West Texas State University historian and member of the state steering committee planning the bicentennial celebration said this week that lack of funds may severely cut back planned celebration-oriented activities scheduled to begin in the fall of 1972.

Guy, who is also a member of a local WTSU committee charged with planning bicentennial events, said the state committee had hoped to raise about $2 million per year for the four years of activities leading to the 1976 celebration.

But, he said, only about 10 per cent of that $2 million figure was raised for the first year from private sources.

No state or federal money comes to the state committee for use in holding programs and activities concerning the bicentennial.

Guy said the ambitious program outlined for the state and for WTSU may be forced into a cutback to only two and possibly one year of activities preceding the anniversary.

"From all appearances," he said, "it looks like there'll be a 1976 celebration on a much reduced scale of what we originally planned."

Guy said the state committee may have planned a too ambitious program.

The committee was planning to finance various special programs by soliciting funds from state corporations and businesses.

"Probably we started too soon," he said. "It might pick up toward 1976. The corporations, of course, just have so much money to go around and they can't fund everything. In three more years they might show some interest."

As initially organized, the state steering committee was to allocate a portion of the funds collected to the regional committees—like the one on the WTSU campus—for localized programs.

But, Guy noted that WTSU's portion of $200,000 will not be much.

He said the local committee will probably continue to coordinate programs with the state committee and will probably not implement any major programs before money is received through the state committee.

Several projects were planned for WTSU in connection with the bicentennial.

Guy said just a year ago, in announcing WTSU involvement in the effort, that programs in history, government and fine arts would be brought to campus for presentation to the public.

Two new courses were also to (See EVENTS, page 10)

Officials Ready On Kindergarten

Although they haven't seen a copy of the legislation, school administrators here are certain they'll be offering a kindergarten program to all district 5-year-olds beginning this fall.

The school district will probably be offering as many as seven kindergarten classes to 5-year-olds next fall in Rex Reeves and Gene Howe elementary schools, according to Supt. Jerry Jacobs.

He said he expects about 150 5-year-olds will be eligible to enroll in the kindergarten program in the district, but noted that attendance is not mandatory.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe signed into law over the weekend a bill requiring school districts to offer kindergarten level classes to all 5-year-olds.

Previously, kindergarten programs were to be phased in and all 5-year-olds would be eligible to attend in 1977.

Under the prior program, children aged 5 years 7 months to 6 years could attend kindergarten in the district.

Jacobs said he believes the kindergarten should be offered to all 5-year-olds because emotionally many 5-year-olds need kindergarten more than children 5 years and 7 months old.

Originally, the school administration had planned to offer half-day classes next fall for kindergarten. They will stick with that plan and offer seven half-day sessions.

Jacobs told school board members Tuesday night, the program will mean adding an additional teacher part-time to the school personnel roster.

School board members hired a new kindergarten teacher at their meeting.

The superintendent said the new program could cause some problems particularly with transportation for the youngsters. Meals will not be served during the half-day sessions and the morning session is expected to be from 8:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. with the afternoon session from 12:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Crowded conditions in the two elementary schools could also pose problems, he said.

While the Canyon school district may encounter problems with its conversion in the kindergarten program, educators at West Texas State University have noted a substanvest but it ensured a dryland crop many old timers are saying is as good as many irrigated acres.

Brazzil said a gradual or slow harvest will be better than a harvest attempted in a short period of time.

"We don't have the number of machines locally available to act quickly," he said. "So, some transients will be moving in."

Brazzil predicted that with a shortage of equipment, smaller farms would have to wait for the harvest to be completed on large acreages before getting their wheat in.

He said it may be about 10 days before the county's larger crop of irrigated wheat is ready for the combine.

One farmer north of Happy reported his field was making about 21 bushels to the acre.

Others in the area reported yields of more than 30 bushels to the acre.

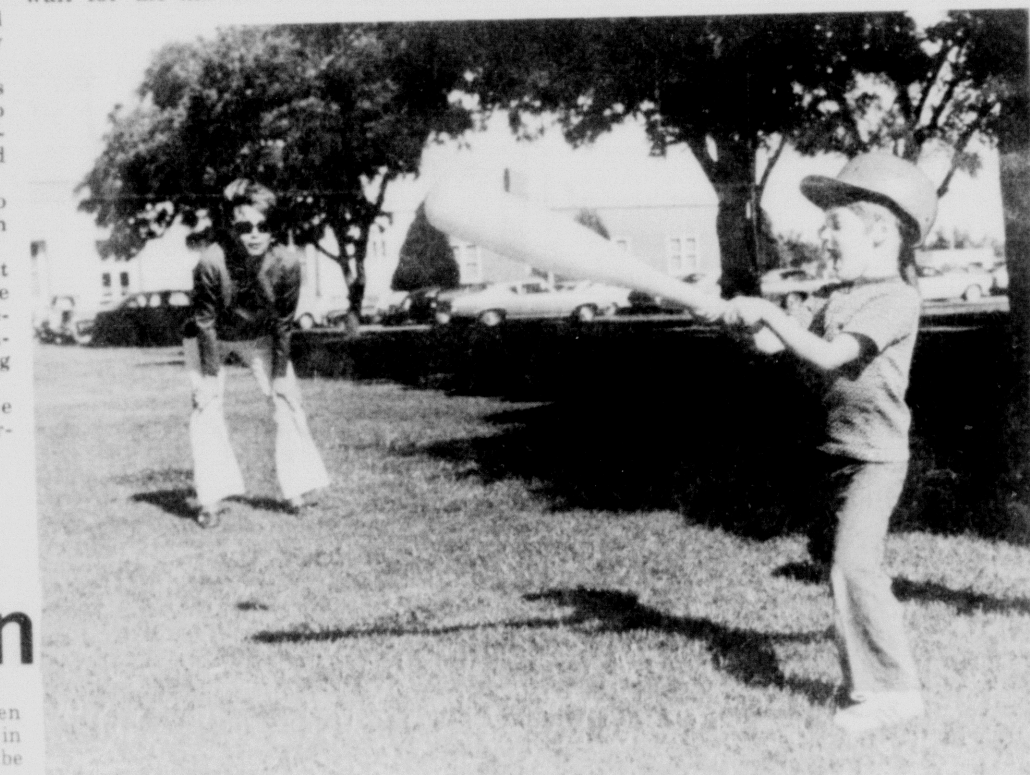

"Some wheat Sunday had a 13 per cent moisture content and that's okay," Brazzil said. Brazzil said most of the natural hazards involved in wheat production have not subsided with maturation of the crop. Farmers need worry no longer about rust, mosaic and bugs.

They still have to worry about hail, though.

And, they may have to worry about a shortage of gasoline to run the machinery necessary to get the near-record crop in.

Randall County jobbers, (See WHEAT, page 10)

Tony Thomas, a kindergartner from Amarillo, takes a big swing in practice this week during a recess in his kindergarten class at West Texas State University. Mrs. Lynn Williams of Canyon is the would-be catcher. Kindergarten will be open to all five-year-olds next fall and WTSU had an upsurge in interest in related courses this summer.

Economic Squeeze Hits As School Eyes Bids

Canyon school board members received a dose of economic squeeze Tuesday night and were given a preview of what may be even tougher pills to swallow in the not-too-distant future.

Tuesday night's bitter dose came in the form of insurance premiums on school buildings and contents, premiums which have almost doubled in three years.

The tough news came when Supt. Jerry Jacobs and business manager Ray Schultz began outlining the economic peril of seeking bids for food for next year's cafeteria programs.

Local insurance agent Cary Magness, who handles the school's insurance, presented school board members with a review of the insurance on the various school buildings and their contents.

Premiums are based on a three-year period.

Magness said the schools and contents are insured for 80 per cent of replacement cost. The last time the insurance program was reviewed was in 1970. Since then a 15 per cent factor has been added to the problem due to inflation.

Some losses in the northwest Texas area have also caused rise in costs for insurance, he said.

Three years ago, the premium on the insurance cost $19,000 for three years. Magness told board members Tuesday the three-year premium will cost $32,869.

With little grumbling the approval was given to pay the premium.

Schultz told board members the cafeteria operation for last school year showed a profit of about $700.

The elementary schools, he said, turned a profit in their operations while the secondary schools showed a net loss.

This is due primarily to the fact that only about 120 students per day at the high school ate in the cafeteria. Schultz said about 650 students could potentially eat in the cafeteria.

Jacobs portended what may be an increase in lunch costs next year, when he gave a pessimistic report on bid-letting scheduled for later this summer on various food products and gasoline.

"I don't have any idea whether we'll get bids period on anything," he said. "Chances are (See SCHOOL, page 10)

County Growth Offsets Tax Hike

Randall County is growing at a fast clip and the growth is apparently offsetting the need for county tax increases.

County commissioners voted Monday to retain the 1972 tax rate of $1.05 per $100 on 17 per cent valuation.

They set the 1973 tax rate after hearing a presentation by Mrs. Audrey Bruse, tax assessor-collector, who said "we've really grown," as she outlined that growth in figures on the tax rolls.

Mrs. Bruse projected a 1973 total taxable valuation of $387.9 million, about $12 million above the total taxable valuation of $375.5 million for 1972.

Assessed valuation would then climb by about $2.1 million from $63.8 million to $65.9 million for 1973.

Total tax income to the county in 1973, she said, would climb from $647,878 in 1972 to $669,310 in 1973—a rise of about $21,000.

Breaking down her growth figures, Mrs. Bruse said new houses in the county accounted for an additional $8 million on the tax rolls, while business and personal inventory valuations should grow by about $1.6 million.

Commissioners tabled the signing of a contract with Potter County commissioners to share on a pro-rated basis the salaries for two district court bailiffs. The contract was tabled due to the absence Monday of Commissioner Jim Fletcher.

8th Season Begins Tonight

Green Will View His 'Texas'

"Texas" is many things to many people. To some it's a saga of Panhandle history. To others it's a rollicking musical romance of Western life. But for one man who will be in the audience this evening, the show embodies his very philosophy of life.

Paul Green, Pulitzer Prize-winning author of historical dramas which are performed in outdoor theatres all over the United States, will be special guest for the gala opening of the show, scheduled at 8:30 p.m. this evening in the Pioneer Amphitheatre at Palo Duro Canyon State Park.

Pervading all of Green's work, which range from tales of the Revolutionary and Civil Wars to the story of American composer Stephen Foster, is the struggle of men against their environment. And in the famous humanist scheme of things, man is almost always triumphant.

"Texas" is no exception. The story deals with an idealistic prairie farmer with a vision as large as the Texas Panhandle itself.

Now rolling into its eighth season, the musical affirmation of mankind has had wide appeal, both to Panhandle oldtimers who get a kick out of seeing a musical version of the cowboy's life, as well as for people from all four corners of the earth who come away from the show with such comments as "Now we know what America is all about."

The show is expected to draw its 500,000th viewer tonight. The person who brings the total viewer count to a half-million will receive a prize, said a spokesman.

This year, the show has attracted nationwide interest. According to the show's publicity director Margaret Harper, "Texas" will be among featured American attractions in a story scheduled to appear in U.S. News and World Report on June 25. Mrs. Harper also reported that a Wall Street Journal reporter is expected to be present for the opening night to interview Green.

Traditionally, Green has made an annual visit to "Texas" in order to suggest minor changes in the script when needed, and to meet with the cast for a general orientation. Such adaptations in (See GREEN, page 10)

Local Divers Win In Fishing Contest

Teammates Joe White, of Canyon, and David Pitt, of Amarillo, won the first place trophy in the Amarillo Skin Diver's Association's first contest of the year held Monday at Lake Meredith.

Together, they shot 274 lbs. of carp which puts the team in front with leading points for the "Diver of the Year" award. White was last year's winner of the "Diver of the Year" award.

The next contest is scheduled from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., CST, July 1, at the north dock of Lake Conchas, located near Tucuman, N.M. Set for the same time on July 15, will be a third meet at the Cedar Canyon boat launching on Lake Meredith.

The registration fee for Amarillo Skin Diver's Association non-members is $4 each and members may enter contests for $3 each.

Six diving contests have been scheduled and the four divers with leading points will be in the running for "Diver of the Year." Plaques and gift certificates will be given to the winner and runners-up.

In addition, the organization plans to begin scuba diving classes at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, at the Activities Center on the WTSU campus. To register, persons must be at least 15 years of age.

Persons interested in entering the diving contests or registering for class instruction may call Mrs. Bobbie White, secretary of the club, at 655-4510, for additional information.

Darrell Glenn, left, Dan McGlasson and Kurt Bentley, all Canyon scouts working this summer at Camp Don Harrington enjoy a time at the canoe basin at the camp.

Scouts Work At Camp

Four Canyon High School students are putting their Scouting to use this summer.

Ted Albertson, ranger at Camp Don Harrington, said four Canyon boys have been hired on his summer camp staff. Dan McGlasson, Darrell Glenn, Kurt Bentley and Jimmy Albertson will help about 900 young Scouts through a week of training at the camp this summer.

McGlasson, a senior at CHS, has many years of Scouting experience and holds the rank of Eagle. He is vice chief of the Palo Duro Lodge Order of the Arrow. At Camp Don Harrington, he is a member of the aquatics staff and instructs Scouts towards achieving the canoeing merit badge. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene McGlasson of 2510 10th Ave.

Glenn, also an Eagle Scout, will be a sophomore this year in CHS. He is a graduate of the Junior Leaders Training School at Philmont Scout Ranch in New Mexico, is senior patrol leader for Troop 112 in Amarillo and is health officer for the summer camp. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don R. Glenn of Palisades Road.

Bentley, a sophomore at CHS this fall, is in charge of concessions at the camp this summer. An Eagle Scout, Bentley is also a graduate of the Junior Leaders Training at Philmont. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bentley of 408 Foster Lane.

Albertson, who will be a junior at CHS, is a Life Scout and will serve on the commissioners staff this summer. He is a member of Explorer Post 25 of Amarillo. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Albertson of Camp Don Harrington.

Happy Artists Take Honors

Five members of the Happy Artists' Studio placed high in the Art Show and Exhibit held June 9 and 10 at Memphis, Tex.

Ernestine Danner received first, second and third place ribbons in the sketching division.

Mary Womack received a first place ribbon in the seascapes category, and a third place ribbon in the watercolor division.

Joy Cox received a second place ribbon for her still-life oil painting.

Zelma Selvidge received two third place ribbons on two of her oil paintings on landscapes.

Mary Moudy received a first and second place ribbon in watercolor. The work, entitled "Bouquet" was awarded the Best of the Show award.

The Moudy work and others are now on display at Happy Arts and Crafts Shop at Happy.

Canyon Capers Schedule Dance

The Canyon Caper's Square Dance Club has scheduled a dance at 8 p.m. Monday in room 121 at the Activities Center on the WTSU campus. A special caller will be present.

Additional dances have been set for the second and fourth Mondays in July and August.

Knox Day, the club's caller, will be in charge on the first dance of each month. Special callers will conduct the second dances of each month.

Also, the organization recently elected new officers which include presidents, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Dugan; vice presidents and reporter, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Tucek; secretary and treasurer, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Thomas; social chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Pitt, all of Canyon.

Canyon Woman Graduates

Miss Debra Caskey, of San Marcos, formerly of Canyon and a 1969 graduate of Canyon High

Miss Debra Caskey

School, was among recent graduates of Texas Woman's University in Denton. She received a Bachelor of Science Degree in Nursing.

She entered TWU in the fall of 1969 and spent most of the time at the Nursing Center in Dallas. In addition, she was a member and officer in Alpha Psi Omega, nursing social sorority.

Beginning in July, Miss Caskey will be working in a Dallas hospital. She plans to take the State Board Examinations this summer.

Trip Puts 'Pizzazz' In Course

Bob Sawvell, head of the geography department at West Texas State University, wanted to put a little "pizzazz" into his curriculum.

So, in about three weeks, he and four students will leave Canyon for Jamaica to study an agrarian society in the tropics.

The students and professor will be in Jamaica about two weeks and will earn credit for their trip.

"My initial idea was that since I've been here the curriculum has been void of any opportunity for off-campus education," he said. "Sure, we have continuing education starting and biology and geology have field trips, but I'm looking at a field trip for credit in areas other than adjacent areas."

Sawvell wanted to add some color to classroom techniques, something other than strict lecture.

Last summer, Sawvell and his family went to Florida primarily with the idea of continuing research for his doctoral degree.

After working in Florida they went to Jamaica and spent several days on the small island, which Sawvell says has an unusual mixture of African and European culture.

During that trip, Sawvell decided the island would be good grist for a credit field trip for students. With that in mind, he made several contacts and then returned to the states.

Throughout the school year, Sawvell has talked with students about their interests in taking the trip and the idea attracted three college students and a high schooler.

He hopes the students can spend two full weeks in Jamaica.

"There are several things about Jamaica," Sawvell said. "One, it's easy to bridge the language gap. It's a good area to study — it's a tropical area — and you can get some idea of the tropics from a climate standpoint."

"Second, it's a good area to study African culture strongly influenced by English culture."

Sawvell said Jamaica is largely an agrarian country with most of the population involved in subsistence-type farming.

He made friends last summer, for example, with a farmer who has six acres of cropland and raises most of his own food on his plot.

The makeup of the culture of Jamaica should make good study material, too, Sawvell said, since the people of the island range from those heavily influenced by the English to those still close to their African origins.

Besides the culture, the students will be eyeing land use patterns of the small farms.

"This is something our curriculum needs," Sawvell said of the trip. "To my knowledge nobody has attempted to organize a course of this type."

For the professor, the course will be a sacrifice of sorts. He will receive no university compensation for his time since a standard class is considered 10 students.

He hopes the program will grow, but doesn't want it to grow beyond about 10 students for control purposes.

Mrs. Mildred Hennington

Services For Local Woman

Funeral services will be held Wednesday for Mrs. Mildred Christene Hennington, 57, an employee of M. E. Moses Company for 19 years.

Mrs. Hennington died at 10:30 p.m. Monday at St. Joseph's Hospital in Albuquerque, N.M. Burial was in Dreamland Cemetery.

Mrs. Hennington moved to Canyon from Olton in 1951. She was a member of the First Baptist Church of Canyon.

Born in Birta, Ark., Mrs. Hennington resided southwest of Canyon.

Conducting funeral services at LaGrone Chapel was the Rev. Darold Baldwin, assistant pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Pallbearers were Floyd Bragg, James Boyce Jr., Jimmy Glenn, J. C. Newton, Bill Glenn and Jake Williams.

Survivors include her husband, Jay Wayne; a daughter, Mrs. Bill Brundridge of Albuquerque; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Boyce of Canyon and Mrs. Floyd Bragg of Jacksboro, and two brothers, James George of Abilene and Luke Wells of Richmond, Wash. Also, two grandchildren and numerous nieces and nephews.

Tuba Recital For WT Grad

Dwight Odell, West Texas State University graduate student from Canadian, will be featured in a tuba recital July 5.

Performance time is 4 p.m. in the WTSU Fine Arts Auditorium on the Canyon campus. The program is free.

Odell, a student of Emerson Haraden, is a member of Kappa Kappa Psi, honorary band fraternity, and is a past president of Theta Chi at Oklahoma State University.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Meredith Odell of Woodward, Okla., and is presently employed as band director in the Canadian schools.

Odell will be accompanied by Miss Nancy Van Hoose of the WTSU music faculty on piano.

Programmed for the recital are "Sonata in d minor" by Archangelo Corelli, "Concerto for Bass Tuba" by Ralph Vaughan Williams, "Sonata for Bass Tuba and Piano" by Thomas Beversdorf and "Sonata" by Paul Hindemith.

'Texas'—An appropriate lyricism

A lyricism appropriate to the Southwest needs to be as clean as a bleached bone and as well-spaced as trees on the llano. The elements still dominate here, and a spare, elemental language, with now and then a touch of elegance, will suffice. . .

Happy News

Miss Happy To Be Judged Tomorrow

By MARY NEAL HENRY
MISS HAPPY WILL be chosen this Friday evening, June 22, at the High School Auditorium at 8 p.m. There will be three categories this year in this event sponsored by Happy Jaycees-Ettes. Admission is $1 and that promises entertainment. Kenneth Wyatt, the noted Western artist from Tulia, will emcee the contest. Happy Jaycees will provide the entertainment.

FHA GIRLS WILL be providing the entertainment, a style show of women's fashions.

SHERRY STARKEY WON the County Horse Show in Tulia on Monday evening. Sherry was high point and won the silver tray. Eddie Joe Pearson was second and was beaten by only one point. Eddie received a silver toothpick holder.

CHRIS PEARSON WAS sixth in the show and also won a silver toothpick holder.

VALERIE TIPPS WON eleventh in the County Horse Show and may also get to enter the District 4-H Horse Show at Post. Congratulations! All!

CHRIS PEARSON WON first in Grade geldings, five years and over, 4th in showmanship, 4th in western pleasure, and 2nd in reining.

EDDIE JOE PEARSON won 3rd in grade gelding, 5 and over, 2nd in showmanship, 2nd in poles, and 2nd in barrels.

VALERIE TIPPS WON 2nd in grade mares, 6th in showmanship, 5th in poles.

SHERRY STARKEY WON 3rd in registered geldings, 5 and over, 5th in showmanship and 1st in poles and 1st in barrels.

GUY WALT VIA won 1st in grade geldings, 4 and under, 8th in western pleasure and 7th in reining. Guy Walt also won high point in horsemanship and received a trophy.

ANGELIQUE HENRY WON 4th in grade geldings, 5 and over. She got a ribbon, but is too young to gain points.

THE HAPPY COWBELLES met with Mrs. Vernon (Mary) Wilhelm on Wednesday morning of last week. Vivian Woods called the meeting to order and displayed the beef by-products kit.

WILLIE BUTLER PRESENTED the program, "Beef for Father's Day." Willie gave a resume of plans and their productions. She told of Mayor Dick Railsback's signing the proclamation and being presented a large ten pound roast, of placing place mats in restaurants, and of the T.V. shows. Each CowBelle told about a different phase of beef promotion.

NOVALENE TOLES, WHOSE beautiful dish took her to the finals in the State Beef Cookoff, told about her trip to Austin and cooking in the finals. She enjoyed the trip and meeting all contestants and their families. Novalene was awarded $50 and an all expense trip to Austin. The picture of her dish and the recipe appeared in Sunday's paper. Over 7000 recipes were submitted in the contest, the second one that has been held. Only 24 finalists were chosen. Novalene's dish was liver. She urges "Eat the whole beef."

These recipes may be secured free by writing Texas Department of Agriculture, Austin, Texas, and asking for the Texas Grain Fed Beef Cookoff Recipes for 1973.

WILLA ELLIOTT REPORTED on the good time that was had on the T.V. show. Seven out of the twelve CowBelle Clubs in Texas were represented. Dorothy Sims and Willa accompanied Novalene and Judy Shipman accompanied me to Amarillo for the taping of the Farm and Home Show.

OTHELLA MCGEEHEE REPORTED on another appearance of she and Vivian Woods on the Bill Sexton Show, for the promotion of beef. Othella also explained how many times and through how many channels that they tried to reach the governor of Texas for the signing of the proclamation and for the beef presentation. He simply couldn't work it into his schedule. Dolph Briscoe did sign the proclamation declaring Sunday, June 17th, Beef for Father's Day in Texas. Happy CowBelles voted to send Governor Briscoe a telegram telling him that we do appreciate his signing the proclamation and hope that next year he will be able to work the presentation into his schedule. I was appointed chairman of this project and it was done.

PARADE FLOATS WERE discussed in the order of business, bills were paid, and the tax on capital gains discussed. Doll Edmonds brought us up to date on the pros and cons of taxation being imposed on capital gains.

COFFEE, COKES, AND donuts were served to Vivian Woods, Billie Pearson, Willa Elliott, Dorris Foster, Ora Cox, Doll Edmonds, Myra Nell Culp, Leona McFarland, LaNelle Todd, Marcus Conway, Judy Thompson, Nora Taylor, Joyce Wheat, Skip Simons, Delores Wilhelm, Othella McGeehee, Bernice Hamblen, Vera Eubanks, Novalene Toles, myself, and hostess, Mary Wilhelm, and co-hostesses Ruby Vise and Willie Butler.

AFTER COWBELLES ON

Wednesday of last week, I travelled to Tulia on business. It was a good opportunity to eat Mexican food at the El Camino. There I saw Mickey (Bryan) Woods, who recently had heart surgery in Denver. It was a real treat to see her. Mickey looks absolutely wonderful and says she feels great. Mickey and her husband, Cecil, live in Plainview.

SHARLA MILLER WON first place in a class of eight with her registered Appaloosa mare. This makes Sharla first in the Golden Spread Horse Club and first in the Eastern New Mexico Horse Club. In fact, Sharla now stands first in the Southwest Regional Clubs, a combination of four horse clubs. She is qualified to show in El Paso in August. But there are more shows before that one. Congratulations, Sharla!

CATHERINE AND AR-

THUR Miller spent Father's Day in Palo Duro Park with Mary and Lavell Phipper and their children. They enjoyed a picnic down there.

ANNE MOUDY'S ENGAGEMENT to Kenneth Rollins of Roswell, New Mexico, has been announced. The wedding has been planned for August 16th in Happy.

PAULINE WESLEY VISITED her brother in Wellington last Sunday. While Pauline was at Lacey and Gertie's, several other relatives came by to visit. ... made her day.

GRACYNE PARKER IS "home" for a visit. ... and the grandchildren, of course. Gracyne and Pattie Wrenn were both visitors in the Ruth Sunday School Class Sunday.

DANNY WRENN HAS been a weekly visitor in our department now for several Sundays, but I forget that he is a visitor.

LIVIA DAVIS VISITED Hank and Clara Magness for a few days last week. Aunt Livia was in the yard when Ethel LaRoe was bidding "goodbye" as she was leaving then I drove down the street on Thursday while Angelique was at ball practice and I stopped to say "hello." Aunt Livia looks very well. She has just returned from visiting her sisters in California.

MAX MIDDLETON WAS helping his dad (Don Ed) last Thursday. They had a gooseneck trailer load of cattle when they stopped at the drug store on their way home. Max lost a tooth that day and he was worried about it. It was at Mildred's and Willard's home on their kitchen cabinet and Max wouldn't have it to put under his pillow that night. Don Ed said they'd be back next week. Sure hope that Granny and Grandad don't lose that tooth!

HAPPY ARTISTS CLUB took top honors at the Memphis Art Show and Exposition recently. Ernestine Danner received first, second, and third in the sketching division, Zelma Selvidge received two third place ribbons on two oil paintings, Joy Cox received a second place for a still life in oil, Mary Womack received a first in sea-scapes category and a third in watercolor, and Kathy Moudy received a first and best of show for a watercolor, "Bouquet." She received a gold ribbon and $25.

KATHY MOUDY RECENTLY presented the program at the Happy Artist Club. She illustrated figure drawing.

THE RAINBOW GIRLS

leave this Sunday morning at 6 a.m. for Grand Assembly at Ft. Worth. See you girls at the hall at 5:30.

Founder-Owner Of Six Gun Territory Has All The Fixins' For Western Flick

Unlike most folks who make the pilgrimage to Hollywood to break into the big time, tall Texan Jim Sorrenson, lord of the cliffside bailiwick of Six Gun Territory, thinks he may have something good enough to bring Hollywood to him.

The rugged High Plainsman has recently been powwowing with Hollywood cinematographer Dick McCarty and western movie director John Cardos about using Sorrenson's authentic western boom town and its adjoining Timbercreek Canyon for the setting of a western shoot-em-up. Sorrenson says he expects word any day now about the actual production date.

But Sorrenson hasn't been content to merely tell the moviemakers about his canyon domain. About five years ago, the native Amarilloan wrote a novel, "And Then There Were Four," a saga of a white man and a half-breed who homesteaded in Palo Duro Canyon and grappled with hostile cowboys and Indians alike.

Sorrenson said he wrote the book with its eventual movie adaptation in mind. The work is now in Hollywood being converted into a film script. It just may be the very script the two filmmakers choose for their on-location shooting in Six Gun Territory.

And if providing his own property for the setting, his own book for the plot were not enough, Sorrenson is also providing character actors for the flick who, as native Panhandle cowboys, need only "just act naturally" as the C&W song goes, in order to be just what the script calls for.

These would-be Tom Mixes and John Waynes include Sorrenson himself (as imposing looking a puncher as John Huston could ever want), his sons, Mike, age 20, and Jack, age 19, and all the young guys and gals who put on their own rollicking shoot-em-up in the main street of Six Gun City each weekend.

Sorrenson & Sons look as authentically old-time cowboyish enough to inspire famed western artist Kenneth Wyatt of Tulsa to use the trio as models for his pictures.

Sorrenson displays one Wyatt work in which son Jack looks a dead ringer for Billy the Kid with his legs, swathed in cowhide chaps, astraddle, his eyes narrowed in a desperado's glower, and his six-shooter poised for a right-between-the-eyes slug for anyone who dares look upon the portrait.

The violence of the Old West that brings in so many of Hollywood's box office dollars is no stranger to the Sorrensons, who indulge in mock gunbattles each weekend in which the men perform any combination of make-believe fratricides, patricides or filicides before a crowd of amused onlookers. Sometimes sons win the draw, sometimes dad does, says Sorrenson. But anyway it comes out, all the gunslings acquire a good deal of expertise on the trigger.

What drew the two filmmakers to Six Gun Territory was a hint from rodeo star-actor Casey Tibbs that the Texas Panhandle would be an ideal spot for a new western. That was two years ago. Since then, the two men have visited the area and found that Sorrenson's land could be used for prairie and canyon scenes, and his town could be used for exteriors and interiors.

Sorrenson says that since the "star system" in which a movie was built around a famous actor has passed (except for biggies like John Wayne), the filmmakers first choose a location, script and working budget, and then pick the star whose schedule fits the movie company's own.

The star for the Six Gun-shot film has not yet been chosen, but Sorrenson says that the lead actor should be a fairly prominent one.

Planning for future shows utilizing Six Gun as a shooting site, Sorrenson says that he has tried to get word to the Duke himself about the Texas Panhandle. The message was sent through the Hollywood grapevine via Ben Johnson, the Academy Award-winning star of "The Last Picture Show," whom Sorrenson spoke with when the star appeared as featured guest for the beef-boosting activities held last spring in Amarillo. Johnson gave Sorrenson his promise to inform Wayne about film opportunities here.

Sorrenson, who says he learned to mount a horse before he even learned his three R's, grew up on a farm-ranch that has long since been gobbled up by the burgeoning Amarillo suburbs.

As a boy who "mainly went to school just to get out of it," he took a deep interest in breaking horses, shooting guns and just looking at the nearby Palo Duro Canyon.

"I must have been four or five years old when I first seen it. I decided right then that the Palo Duro was my favorite part of the whole world. Still is. Because of its beauty, serenity, and I can just go on and on."

Sorrenson graduated from Amarillo High School, and went on to do some college work at Kansas State University at Manhattan, Ks. and at Texas A&M. He majored in agriculture.

At first, the way Sorrenson's career was going, he says, it looked like he was going to be a professional horse trainer. In 1960-61, the bronco-buster took the top titles in state and national championship halter and cutter-horse competition.

But then Sorrenson ran into the opportunity to buy the acreage that embraced Timbercreek Canyon, a pasture and the cliff-top property. It was too good a chance for someone who loved Palo Duro Canyon, horses and guns to miss.

When he bought the property, all that was on it, he says, was a barbed wire fence and one well. That changed, presently, as Sorrenson began development of his own western-style amusement park.

What wasn't built as a replica of an old cowtown of the 1880's was the real thing — like the adobe that serves as Six Gun City's sheriff's office. Sorrenson said he had it moved from its original site in Amarillo where it stood even before the railroad passed through that city. The hut variously served as a dwelling place for Mexican railroad hands who anticipated the iron horse's arrival, and later as a grocery store, dance hall, tortilla factory and house of ill repute. The town also boasts a century-old hearse and an antique organ, as well as other antiques.

Although Sorrenson says that nowadays almost all westerns have to have some sex interest (his own novel features a nubile Indian maiden whose morals are not exactly Victorian), he says the day will never come when Six Gun Territory will be the setting for an X-rated film. A town, after all, has to have law and order.

Sorrenson . . . Just actin' naturally

Former Local Resigns Post As Asst. DA

Former Canyon resident Kerry R. L. Knorpp announced earlier this week his resignation as first assistant district attorney for Potter and Armstrong counties.

Knorpp, a graduate of Canyon High School and West Texas State University, has served as an assistant in the district attorney's office for three years, including more than a year as first assistant.

He served as assistant city attorney for the City of Amarillo for a year and a half before joining the district attorney's office.

Knorpp said he has accepted a temporary appointment by Judge Darrell Hester of the 197th District Court of Cameron County, to serve as district attorney pro tem at Brownsville.

County Natural For Site Of A Movie?

The immediate Canyon area has just about everything you could ask for to attract a motion picture set here.

That's the tentative conclusion of Mrs. Chris Thomas, who as secretary to Judge Woody Pond has been compiling information for the Texas Film Commission about Randall County.

Although Mrs. Thomas has not yet completed a pages long questionnaire sent her by the film commission, she says without equivocation the county seems to meet an abundance of the requirements for shooting of a movie.

The Texas Film Commission, created in 1971, is charged with attracting motion picture companies to shoot on Texas locations.

During its first year of operation, the commission worked with 22 companies which left more than $6 million in the state.

The questionnaire sent by the commission to the county seeks information on sites in the county which would make good locations for motion pictures.

Mrs. Thomas notes Palo Duro Canyon, Six Gun City, and Canyon itself are definitely spots which would provide good location for the movies.

The questionnaire also seeks information about the availability of local talent for movies, and Mrs. Thomas noted the talent readily available each summer from the area for the musical-drama TEXAS.

Mrs. Thomas said many important sites or props may be left out of the questionnaire and asks that local residents with further information contact her.

Committee Set On Lab Sites

A special committee has been established by the Texas A&M board of regents to study potential sites for construction of a $900,000 large animal veterinary diagnostic laboratory.

Dr. Charles Smallwood, dean of agriculture at West Texas State University, said he is busy preparing a proposal for the committee to consider a site on the WTSU campus.

Smallwood said he has written the board and asked that local officials be informed of when they can meet with the special committee on the WTSU proposal.

Originally, the diagnostic lab was to be built on the local campus. That was presented in a bill to the legislature by Rep. Bryan Poff.

But, a later compromise bill which passed House, Senate and gubernatorial scrutiny called for construction on a site in Potter or Randall counties.

Smallwood said he has been assured of full support from the Amarillo and Canyon chambers of commerce to have the facility located at WTSU.

Hospital Board Handles Routine

Members of the South Randall County Hospital District board met Monday night and discussed routine business.

Administrator Ray Grimes reported he is still waiting for final plans from Austin architect Bill O'Connell before bids can be asked for construction of a proposed $1.6 million hospital in Canyon.

Zoning Approved By City For Taylor-Foster Land

After only slight opposition Monday night, Canyon city commissioners approved zoning for the newly annexed Taylor-Foster addition in east Canyon.

Approved was zoning for multi-family and single family construction in the tract. Also approved was a contract with an Amarillo firm for construction of a storm sewer extension into the new addition.

Mrs. W.E. Parker of Canyon voiced the only opposition to the proposed zoning for the new addition.

She based her presentation during the Monday public hearing on the fact that a portion of 28th Street south of the 11th Avenue entrance to the addition would not be paved.

Calling the dirt road a definite hazard, Mrs. Parker said she would oppose zoning which might allow for construction of an apartment complex due to the heavy traffic load the dirt road might be expected to carry.

Commissioner Jim Christopher, who abstained from the voting on any issues involving the Taylor-Foster addition due to a business connection, told Mrs. Parker that 11th Ave. through the addition will be paved and that 28th Street north of 11th Ave. is already paved.

Mayor Manly Bryan noted that it is up to the property owners to pay for street paving. Gilvin Terrill of Amarillo was low bidder and received the contract to construct a storm sewer extension into the new addition.

The Amarillo firm bid $17,727 for the construction. Other bidders were T.O.K. of Amarillo, $18,002, and Foran Construction of Amarillo, $18,844.

Mayor Bryan noted the low bid is still about $1500 more than the amount budgeted for the project in this year's budget.

After a brief discussion, commissioners decided the additional funding could be covered in the budget.

In other business, commissioners approved paying $2200 to Brown, Graham & Co. for the 1972 audit report and voted to rehire the firm to perform the 1973 audit.

Commissioners also discussed briefly the placing of restroom facilities at the softball diamonds in east Canyon near the city sewer plant.

Umbarger News

By REBA RAEF

GREETINGS, AGAIN, FROM Umbarger. Well, highway 60 is being re-surfaced and last Friday and Saturday, the work was right in Umbarger. After those sweepers swept the highway through town, every house and store in town could use a good dusting, etc. The improved highway, though, is well worth all the dust and noise that we had.

AT THE REGULAR meeting of the Knights of Columbus, held Tuesday evening, June 12, officers to head up the organization for the coming year were elected. Named as Grand Knight is Sylvester Batenhorst; Deputy Grand Knight is Bernard Hartman; chancellor is Robert Friemel; recorder is Melvin Wieck; treasurer is Robert Koch; advocate is Ed Wieck; warden is Dennis Hartman; Inside guard is Darroll Adams; Outside guard is Carroll Adams; trustee is Earnest Stocker; financial secretary is Jack Brandt and the remaining trustees are Ben Koch and Carl Hartman.

MR. AND MRS. Hubert Rowland have returned to their home in Delano, Calif., after visiting with their daughter, Mrs. Joe Fischbacher and family, for two weeks. Mrs. Fischbacher and daughters accompanied her parents to California for a two weeks visit. Enroute home, they went through the Grand Canyon.

MR. AND MRS. Earnest Stocker have another little granddaughter, Dallas Elizabeth Magera, daughter of the Gene Magera's, who live in Houston. She arrived June 18 and joins three brothers and one sister. Mrs. Magera is the former Deanna Stocker. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Magera of Chicago, Ill. Our congratulations to the parents and grandparents.

MR. AND MRS. Hap Rosson from Georgetown, Texas, visited with her mother, Mrs. Emma Brandt last Monday.

ACCORDING TO PAUL Ferguson, manager of Buffalo Lake, the crowds at the lake over the weekend were unusually heavy and that a lot of fish were caught. Speaking of the lake, I received a letter from Congressman Bob Price, telling me that he had sent the last 500 signatures on the petition to keep Buffalo Lake open, to the Secretary of the Interior and that as soon as he received a response in his office, he will get in touch with the Umbarger Community Association. As soon as we get some word, we will pass it on to you readers. We have another 257 signatures on the petition, which we will send on to Bob Price today.

OUR PASTOR, MSGR. Schafle, takes his weekend vacation jaunts in the middle of the week. Since he is, for obvious reasons, busy each weekend, he takes his fully equipped trailer behind his station wagon and during the week, away he goes. Last week, his "weekend" was spent in Palo Duro Canyon, and Father said that the canyon is very pretty this year.

MRS. GERTRUDE FISCHBACHER went with the Harry Brorman family, of Hereford, to Carlsbad, New Mexico, over last weekend. They visited with two of Mrs. Fis-chbacher's daughters and families, the John L. Walterscheids and the Edward Kleins. Mrs. Brorman is the former Mary Fischbacher.

MRS. EMMA BRANDT visited her daughter and family, Mrs. Ida Birkenfeld in Nazareth last Sunday.

MAY WE EXTEND our sympathy to George and Mary Brockman, whose grandson, Chris Brockman, died last week. Also to his parents, Allan and Donna Brockman, who live in Hereford.

THE 4-H MEMBERS, who are taking the entomology course, being taught by Sadie Brandt each Tuesday afternoon at 2:00 p.m. are: Debra, Karen and Larry Hartman; Brenda Batenhorst; Timothy, Troy and Joleta Adams and Donna Wieck. Sadie reports that the children show very much interest in the class.

WELL, OUR BETTER half had an enjoyable Father's Day. Margaret and Michael Browder from Amarillo and the Hartman children and the Marion Hick's from Umbarger came by with greetings and gifts. Then, we went to Kenneth and Sylvia Artho's for supper. Lewie talked to the rest of the children on the phone, so it was a nice day for him. Bernard Hartman spent Father's Day in bed with "Old Man" flu and they didn't get by.

MR. AND MRS. Richard E.

Friemel went to Pryor, Oklahoma last week, and spent several days with his sister and family, the Albert Birkenfeld's.

MRS. DON WOODS and daughter, Michelle, from Columbus, Ohio, and Sister Mary Bertille, R.S.M., from New Orleans, Louisiana are visiting their mother, Mrs. Aline Lindemann and their brother Snokey Lindemann and family. They both plan to be here until August, and will visit other relatives in this area, before returning to their homes.

THAT ABOUT WINDS it up for this time, but feel free to call me, if you have news for my column. 499-2164.

Canyon Girl Wins Tourney

Alexis Hefley

A Canyon girl, Alexis Hefley, won first place in the 14 girls doubles division of the Amarillo open tennis tournament held last weekend.

Miss Hefley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dub Hefley of Canyon Creek Apartments, and her partner, Yvonne Berryhill of Amarillo, won the honor.

She is a 9th grader at Canyon Junior High School where she is active in girls basketball and tennis.

Worship Services Held At Palo Duro

Billy Mooney of Amarillo and employed by the Amarillo State Highway Department, will speak Sunday at the mission worship services held at Palo Duro Canyon.

The mission is nondenominational and conducted by volunteer laymen of all faiths from the area for persons camping in the canyon as well as area residents interested in attending. Money collections are not taken at the services.

Services are being held from 11-12 a.m. each Sunday. The attendance last Sunday totalled 61 with Ocie Chisum, 2004 2nd Ave., Canyon, and major advisor in the marketing department at WTSU, as speaker. According to Mrs. Gilbert Brown, of Rt. 1, Canyon, and publicity chairman, "Last Sunday, the largest number of campers ever attending the worship services was recorded."

The meeting place has been changed from the first water crossing to Cottonwood Grove located just beyond water crossing #5, J.C. Newton, 410 Foster Lane, Canyon, and employed by the State Highway Department of Canyon, is mission director. Ken Baker, 1704 Hillcrest, Canyon, and employed at the WTSU Bookstore, is music director and his wife, Louise, is organist.

This is the second summer that worship services have been held at the mission and the average Sunday attendance has been recorded at 50. All age groups are invited to attend. "A majority of the persons attending seem to be retired couples who are camping in the park," said Mrs. Brown. Fourteen states were represented at the mission during last summer.

The organ, songbooks and chairs are being provided by the First Baptist Church of Canyon.

Responsible for equipment transportation are Weldon Trice, 409 Taylor Lane, Canyon, and assistant dean of student life at WTSU, and B.B. Kendrick, 522 12th Ave., Canyon, and teacher at Canyon High School. Also, Mrs. Jean Gallaway, 2006 8th Ave. and business education teacher at Canyon High School, is in charge of publicity distribution to campers in the park.

Leash Ordinance To Be Enforced

Although they might not be aware of it, owners of pets off the leash, both on and off their own property, are breaking Article 3-17 of the Canyon City Code.

Canyon Police Chief Al Stewart said this week that he and his officers will be enforcing the law regarding unleashed animals strictly this summer. It could mean up to a $200 fine for offenders.

Animal citations will be issued to the owners of all pets found off the leash and running at large on public or private property. If the owner is not on the scene when a citation is issued, animals will be taken to the Markham Veterinarian Clinic where the city contracts for animal control services. Owners will be liable for kennel services, Stewart says.

If the animals are not claimed within five days of apprehension, the pets will be put to sleep, Stewart said.

Police officers are authorized by the code to apprehend unleashed animals even when they are on the owner's property, Stewart said.

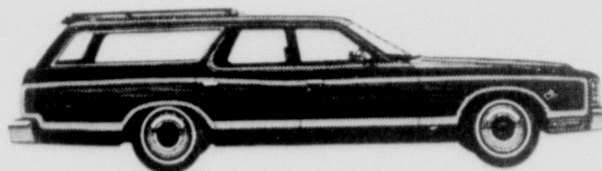

"With children out playing this summer, there is a much greater liability that some may be bitten if this ordinance is not enforced more stringently, he added.

Couples' Anniversaries Celebrated

By TROYCE MULHERIN
Pray for Rain Greetings:
GEORGE DID IT. He found himself a lovely lady and married her. The bride is Hellen, nee Hellen Bradley, now Mrs. George Schmidt. Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt were married last Saturday evening at the Trinity United Methodist Church. Hellen is a nurse, working in the pediatrics department at Northwest Texas Hospital. George is sales manager for KDJW. (He is best known to Gene Howlanders as the coach of the fourth grade girls baseball team, tho). Mr. and Mrs.

Schmidt are making their home on Sunburst Street. It's very nice to have this fine young couple in our territory. Very best of wishes to you both.

SORTA AS A wedding present, George's team won their game over Whittier last Friday evening with a score of 32-10. DeAnna Henwood, Jo Delaney and Kaki Mulherin contributed a homerun each; and, Shelley Shenk tossed in two homers for her share of the score.

MR. AND MRS. Chet Smith observed their anniversary on the 12th. Thirty years together! Tho they didn't have special plans for the day, the Smiths went to see the horse races in Raton over the weekend.

JESSIE AND DAVE Coronado celebrated their seventeenth anniversary on the 16th. That afternoon the Coronados went on a picnic with the Y Indian Guides, which was fun. That evening, they and several area couples dined and danced with the Knights of Columbus. Joining on the big people's fun were the John Dozers, the J.L. Rileys, the Bobby Hulseys and the Chink Bettys.

THOSE FIFTH AND sixth grade girls won their game over Ridgecrest last week, with final score of 41-39. Diedra Carroll and Martha Cannon were homerun hitters for coach Mac Thrash.

CHARLENE AND BILLY Moore are home after a mini vacation. Actually it was no vacation for Billy who had business to take care of in Denver. Charlene had important shopping to take care of, too. After winding up in Denver, the Moores spent some time at the Mt. Princeton Ranch. The Moore youngsters, Gina, Rhonda and Greg, had a blast swimming in the hot springs, hiking and so forth. Billy was having a blast, too. He was, that is, until he was aged to sprain his ankle while hiking. Back home for Billy to recoup and get Rhonda ready for camp at Roaring Springs.

BILL AND WILMA Hall were thrilled, and surprised, to have Bill's youngest brother and family come to visit for several days. The surprise part comes in 'cause it has been years, many, many years since the brothers have seen each other. After considerable cajolery, Charles and Bobbie Hall came to visit. Son Mike and niece Sherry, daughter of Lucy Hall, played company, too. The group picnicked in Palo Duro Canyon. Had to wade in the creek and ride the Sad Monkey train, in order to make the trip complete.

STAN, OUR HALL'S son, went home with the brother Halls. Stan observed his birthday on the 14th, and plans were to spend such day swimming, bowling, playing observer at the ball games, picnicking, etc. Just in case they would not be able to crowd this schedule into just one day, Stan plans to stay on until the list of activities is completed.

MR. AND MRS. Herman Thrash, Mac's mom and dad, came to visit from Kansas. Mac has been telling his dad about the excellent fishing at Buffalo Lake, and Herman decided to come down and find out for himself if all his son said was true. It was. Better than most can ever hope for. Everybody caught fish! Mac caught himself a moosehopper. Actually, it was a catfish. A catfish weighing twelve pounds and being 31 inches from the top of its head to the tip of its last fin. Should be using the past tense when referring to this particular fish, 'cause it is not that long anymore. It is now filling the Thrash's freezer in the form of filets! Mac's niece, Bobi, came for visiting and for fishing, too.

NONE TOO SOON to be thinking about those good ol' shots, mom. The immunization kind, that is. Free clinics for Amarillo citizens will be conducted by the Amarillo Bi-City County Health unit from 1:00 to 5:30 today. If for some reason you can't make it in today, give the clinic a call to learn other dates for the free immunizations. Our youngsters will need to be "up to date" in this regard, so they can get in school. (Oh, joy, beautiful word, "school"). No charge. The clinic keeps nice, neat, permanent records.

THANKS FOR THE use of the hall and for the calls.

Baby Boy Born To W.Manleys

Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Manley, 1413 Creekmore, Canyon, are parents of a new baby boy, Jeffrey Bryan Manley, born June 11, 1973 at Neblett Memorial Hospital. He weighed 7 lbs. 2 ozs. and measured 20 inches in length at birth.

The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Dowlen of Canyon.

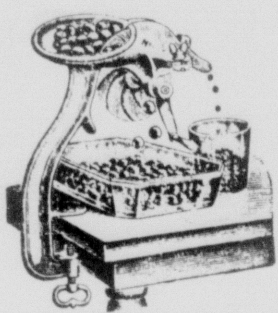

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Manley of Abernathy are the paternal grandparents.

The Manleys have two other sons, Todd, age 5, and David, age 3.

The father is an inspector for the Texas Vending Commission. The mother is a teacher at Bushland Schools.

Canyon Days To Carry On American Tradition

One wouldn't know it now, but 100 years ago in America the Fourth of July was the nation's biggest holiday, ranking only under Christmas and far outdistancing Easter and Thanksgiving in its observances.

It was the day for ballyhoo and hoopla, stump oratory and old-fashioned politics, for popping firecrackers and running races.

Although elsewhere now in America a person might get through the day as serenely as any other day, it will be hard to say the same for Canyon folk, who will be carrying on the good old American tradition with a week-long winking that will embrace such Yankee pastimes as baseball, tobacco-spitting and parade watching.

Canyon Days will open Friday, June 29 with the Eighth Annual World Championship Pony Express Race in the Randall County Sheriff's Posse Rodeo Arena, two miles south of Canyon off the Lubbock Highway.

When the gun goes off at 8 p.m. the race will be on for what Posse member Jimmy Plain says are 14 of the best riders in the country.

When Canyon came up with the idea for the championship eight years ago, Plain said, they didn't believe the races would evolve into one of the most competitive horse events in the nation. The Posse itself ceased to compete in the race several years ago, and now only the top teams come up for the event.

Attending this year will be the current world championship title holders from Crowley, as well as Oklahoma teams from Johnson County, Durant and Caney, and Texas entries from Alvarado, Lewisville, Saginaw, Lubbock, Floydada and Plainview.

Prizes include $1,000 for the winner, $600 for second place and $400 for third place. The competition is organized into round-robin brackets, with the team winning the most races taking the top prize.

Races will continue at 8 p.m.

Saturday, June 30.

Highlighting the Canyon Day festivities for June 30 will be the parade, which will begin at 14th St. and Fourth Avenue and wind up at Conner Park, where numerous Canyon clubs and civic organizations will sponsor various activities.

The Rotary Club will sponsor a pet show in the park as well as an open-air flea market in the Court-house Square.

The Kiwanis Club will have both a baseball tournament for Canyon men, as well as an all-star game featuring top young players on its city teams.

The Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a Mustache-Growing Contest, with awards going to men with the best one-week's growth, two week's growth, perennials, and other categories.

Boy Scout Troop 31 will sell buffalo burgers at 50 cents apiece. The scouts will be selling coupons this week for 90 cents, entitling buyers to a burger, fries and Pepsi.

The Canyon Summer Recreation Program, under the direction of Dr. A.J. Laquette will be in the park for presentations of various athletic and craft skills.

The Canyon News will again sponsor a tobacco-spitting contest in which crack champion spitter Weyman Brown is expected to challenge all entries.

The Canyon Fire Department will sponsor the bicycle-decorating contest, and the Canyon Police Department will conduct bicycle-racing events.

Culmination of Canyon Days comes with the Fireworks Display to be held at nightfall on the fourth in Conner Park.

the original script have made the show in eight year's time more and more polished.

Ranked among the most spectacular highlights of the musical are its depiction of a Panhandle thunderstorm and its surrealistic fire ballet.

The thunderstorm is a taped version of the real thing which is played on the best and most sophisticated sound equipment that money can buy, and enhanced by the naturally-excellent acoustics of the canyon. The sound and light crew reported that this year's show will boast a $20,000 addition in technical equipment.

tial increase in the number of students involved in kindergarten courses this summer.

The university moved this summer to meet an expected demand for more kindergarten teachers by providing certification classes.

Certification in kindergarten requires 12 hours of classes, according to Dr. Dan White, chairman of the WTSU elementary education department.

White says 142 students enrolled in the early education courses during the first summer term at West Texas State. This was twice as many students as was expected, he adds.

"Most of the students who are taking the early education courses are current teachers or graduates with their certificates who have not been able to find jobs in the elementary schools in the Panhandle area," White says.

Most of them are hoping to get jobs in kindergarten teaching."

One of the features of the summer early education classes at WTSU is that a kindergarten is being conducted on campus.

"This direct teaching through observation is really beneficial to the student as it does not divide the theory from the practical application," White says.

Some of the benefits of the kindergarten bill and the WTSU summer program are already evident, he says.

"One student said at registration that she already had been guaranteed a teaching job if she would get her kindergarten affiliation this summer," White said.

The early education course program leading to fulfillment of requirements for the endorsement on a teaching certificate will be completed during the second summer session starting July 16.

executed dance depicting a prairie blaze which crops up in the mind's eye of the show's narrator, Uncle Henry. Clad in fiery red costumes, the female dancers display the same flaming tenacity of spirit, the same refusal to be forever quelled, that the Panhandle brush fires demonstrated when soot-faced cowboys struggled manfully to extinguish them.

The choreography of Neil Hess has received numerous accolades from critics who have seen the show. Interestingly, one pragmatic producer of an outdoor Missouri drama once told "Texas" business manager Raymond Raillard how his show handled a fire scene. The show, a tale of the Ozark hill-dwellers, boasted a real fire every night when cast members set a log cabin ablaze and invited the cast to come up and help extinguish the fire. A new cabin was constructed each day during the run of the show. However, for artistic purposes, most critics have preferred "Texas" way of doing things.

In seven years, the historical tale of the Panhandle has accumulated some history of its own, part fact, part tall tale. One former cast member tells of an evening when a rattlesnake slinked onto the stage while the cowboy quartet was singing. According to his tale, one of the brawnier songsters put his booted heel forward and crushed the reptile without even breaking character.

This year's show will focus on the windmill, the mechanism through which the Panhandle was watered and settled. Artists from all over the state have submitted works in the show's competition, which will select top windmill creations in photography, painting, three-dimensional work and graphics.

On display will be the judges' choices of finalists in the four categories. Winners will be acknowledged at the opening and prizes will be awarded.

In the painting division finalists are Estelle Pruitt of Panhandle, Twig Smith of Tulsa, Frances Stegall of Goodland, Suzanne Teyke of Plainview, Deane White of Hale Center, Rheata White of Muleshoe and Helen Wynn of El Paso.

Finalists in the photography division are Herbert Crowell of Amarillo, Mrs. J. S. Edwards of Slaton, Frances Hill of Miles, John Jefferson of Austin, Gina Tanner of Fort Worth and Deane White of Hale Center.

In the graphics division, finalists are Margaret Fletcher of Canyon, Bob Hargrave of Happy and Delilah Hoyle of Follett. Three-dimensional works entering the final competition are those by Richard Hulquist of Amarillo, Jona Laubman of Follett and H. V. Snyder of Muleshoe.

Judges of the show who will be present at tonight's opening are Olive Vandruff Bugbee of Clarendon, Ben Carlton Mead of Dallas and Billie Wolfe of Lubbock.

The show also boasts a beef barbecue catered by Scott Sutphen, which will begin at 6:30 p.m. Meal prices are $2.25 for adults and $1.40 for children.

"Texas" will play nightly except Sundays in the canyon through August 25, with a special Sunday performance on July 1. Persons wishing to purchase tickets are asked to reserve seats in advance at the "Texas" box office.

City Teacher Guest Instructor For Courses

A Vocational-industrial teacher from Canyon is among the more than 150 participating in special teacher certification courses at Southwest Texas State University this summer. The program opened June 4 and will run through July 10.

The local teacher participating in the program is Harold L. Hagemeier of Box 504, Canyon. Hagemeier holds a bachelor of architecture from Texas A&M University. He is a teacher of vocational certification courses at Canyon High School. Hagemeier is one of 10 guest instructors for the summer program.

Southwest Texas is the fourth university in Texas to offer the vocational-industrial certification courses, required by the Texas Education Agency.

they'll have some kind of escalation clause based on their so-called wholesale prices."

On gasoline, Jacobs said the school would probably get bids on tank wagon prices.

Several board members suggested the district investigate the possibility of purchasing a large $10,000 fuel storage tank in case the fuel crisis worsens.

In other business, board president Tom Keeling appointed Richard Pruett, Ed Wieck and Jacobs to a committee to meet with a similar Amarillo school board committee to continue negotiations about Amarillo's proposal to annex 11 sections of land now in the Canyon school district.

Keeling also reiterated the board's intentions to build a new junior high or high school on 60 acres of land in the north part of the district when enrollment demands such construction.

"I thought we made ourselves clear but evidently it didn't make the rounds some way," he said.

"We're reluctant to do anything, but we'd be negative unless somebody can show us some other good reasons," Jacobs said of the Amarillo attempt to annex the property.

Jacobs said it is the intent of the school board and of the community to provide a quality education for all students.

"People who've mentioned anything to me about this annexation in our school district expressed a real strong desire that we not let Amarillo have any of our land," Jacobs said. "There may be some people who feel different but all so far have taken the position that we'll take care of our own and let them take care of their own."

Jacobs reported that work continues on the vocational school planned for construction on the CHS campus.

He said the architect is eyeing a date for bid-letting of Aug. 27.

In other business, the board voted to sell two buses, 1963 models, to Santa Fe Railway for more than $2000.

County . . .

worked out the contract, which states that both commissioners courts will be consulted on any hike in salaries for the two bailiffs.

The bailiffs will come to Canyon with their respective district judge when the judge meets court here. In the past, Randall County sheriff's deputies have acted as bailiffs for district court.

Potter County commissioners signed the contract during their regular meeting Monday.

In other business, commissioners heard a request by Hugh Kelso that a road in the west part of Canyon be closed.

Kelso noted that the road, which is just on the edge of the city limits, is about 20 feet from a county road.

Actually, he said, no road is currently in use there, but a street has been dedicated to the public.

Commissioners voiced no objection to his posting of notices stating the road is to be closed. Kelso presented a petition calling for closing of the road and was told by Pond he needs to obtain more signatures on the petition.

Commissioners also signed an agreement with the City of Amarillo okaying a department of health proposal that the Bi-City County Health Unit in Amarillo be allowed to perform examinations on welfare recipients under the age of 21 at no cost to the county.

Bids were opened and tabulated on a station wagon for use by the sheriff's office. Decision on who will provide the car was postponed.

Bidders were Jess Ford of Canyon — $3829; Plains Chevrolet, — $3997 on a Belair and $4056 on an Impala; Plains Chevrolet — $3852 on a Belair and $3928 on an Impala; Imperial Chevrolet — $3902 on a Belair and $3990 on an Impala.

The George C. Co. of Dallas was low bidder for nine sirens for the sheriff's office with a bid of $1664. Motorola of Amarillo bid $1951. Commissioners voted to purchase the equipment from the Dallas firm.

Commissioners also tabled a decision on purchase of camera equipment for the sheriff's office.

Bidders were K-Mart, $1962; Village Camera Store, $1017; and Hertz, $839.

be introduced in the history curriculum in relation to the 1976 birthday.

One of the courses, the American Dream, will be taught on campus beginning this fall by Michael Green and Dr. Russell Sparling, professors of history and English respectively.

The course is designed to examine the American Dream through literature and history.

Another course, American Culture in the 20th Century, is not yet scheduled for implementation.

But, the major project the WTSU committee hoped to get underway in connection with the bicentennial was an oral history program.

The program was designed to draw on the personal accounts of area citizens who were among the original settlers of the Panhandle.

That project, with the lack of funding at the state level, now appears headed for immediate oblivion, Guy intimated, noting that the university cannot afford to fund the project itself.

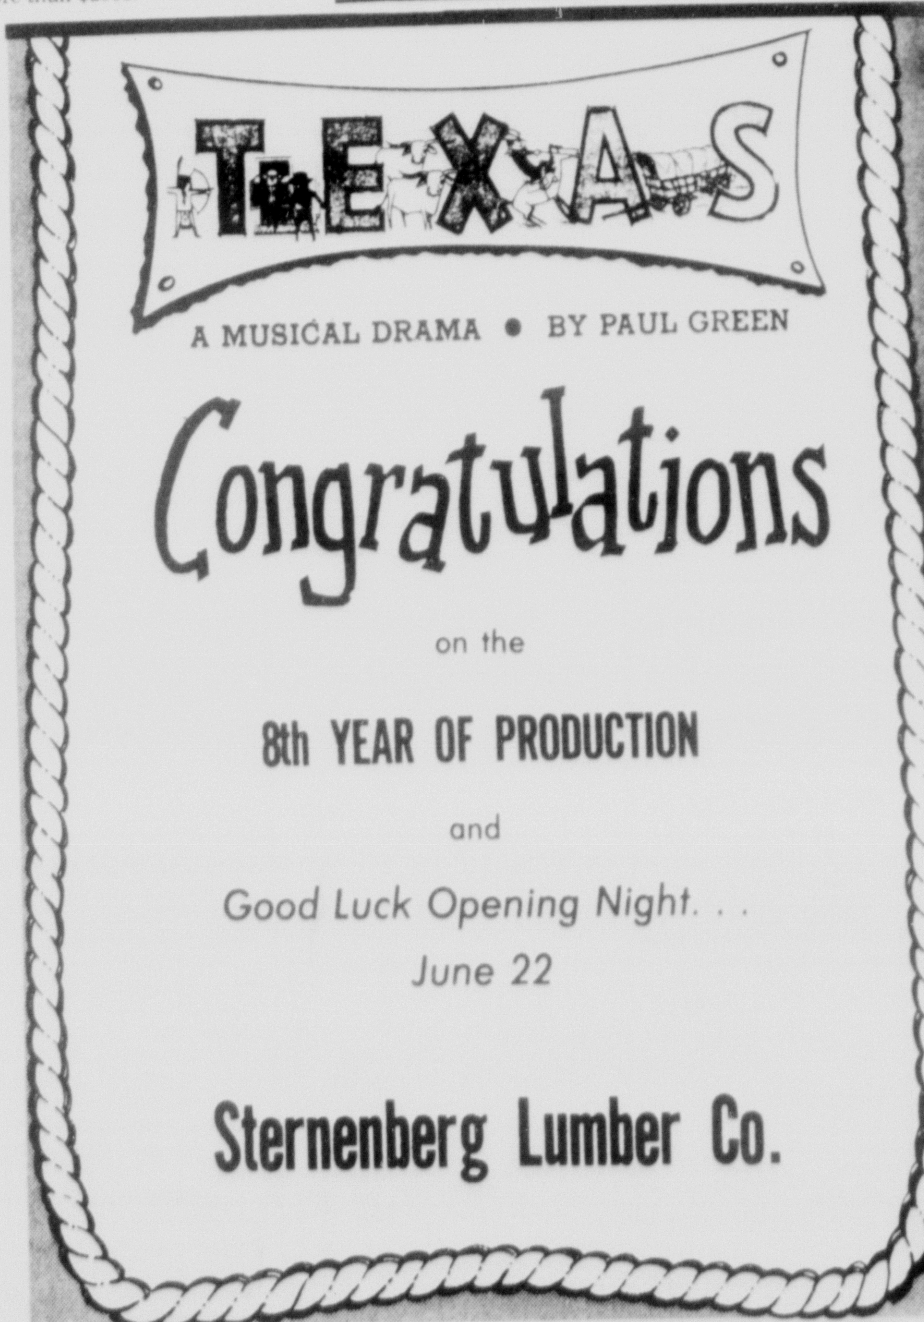

If money is allocated to WTSU's committee, Guy said the oral history project would probably receive a high priority to receive funding.

Guy said the lack of enthusiasm for programs relating to the nation's birthday "is too bad when you stop to consider some of the programs prepared, programs with lasting value and contributions to the American heritage."

He said the committees still hope to contribute to Americans' knowledge of their past and their country—if the money is available.

Scabies Release Given

Randall County was one of four counties released this week from a year and a half quarantine for cattle scabies.

Word of the release for Randall, Carson, Hartley and Ochiltree counties came this week from the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The action leaves only four Panhandle counties under quarantine for the shipment of cattle.

Quarantines to control cattle scabies were initially imposed in December 1971 and were fought furiously by local farmers and stockmen.

Thirty-four Texas counties were originally placed under the quarantine but the restrictions have subsequently been lifted.

A USDA spokesman said all cattle in Randall County were inspected for scabies mites by USDA or Texas Animal Health Commission livestock inspectors before the quarantine was lifted.

Potter, Castro, Deaf Smith and Parmer counties remain under the quarantine as do eight counties in New Mexico.

J. Wilsons Have New Baby Boy

Jimmy Dale Wilson, Jr. was born to Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy D. Wilson, 105 15th St., Canyon, June 16, 1973 at the Neblett Memorial Hospital. The Wilson's new son weighed 8 lbs. and measured 20 1/2 inches in length at birth.

The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. B.L. Brant, of Amarillo.

Mr. and Mrs. J.H. Wilson, also of Amarillo, are the paternal grandparents.

The father is employed by the National Linen Service.

"Texas" Technical Director Nick Reid Sees Production From All Sides Now

SCENE: As the lone bugle call signals the opening of Paul Green's musical drama's third season, a college-age young man clad in cowboy gear repeats his single line, "Can I show you to your seat, sir?"

Fade out. Calendar leaves fly off to June, 1973. Scene commences on the eve of the gala opening of the eighth season of "Texas." Same young man, now looking more mature and much more self-confident, stands before the stage, arms folded, scrutinizing every aspect of the open stage whose technical design he has directed. "Splatter the left stage screen a little more and I think we're ready to go," he remarks to one of his crew members nearby.

Nick Reid, technical director of "Texas," seems like a modern variation on the Horatio Alger myth. Beginning in the show's ranks as an usher while a student at West Texas State University, he performed in a different capacity with the show each of the four years he was a cast-crew member.

After the usher job, he returned the next year to paint scenery, a duty which as a former art major he found particularly dear to his heart. The next year he ventured from behind the scenes to the stage, where he was a singer-dancer in the cowboy chorus.

The next year found him still in front of the footlights, this time in a full-fledged character role, that of the old Indian chief, Nacon, who in one of the show's most stirring scenes, listens to dauntless sod-buster Calvin Armstrong describe the magnificent Progress that would come to pass when the white man took the red man's land into sacred trust.

The role of Nacon was so closely studied by Reid, that it made him a natural in a lead role in Arthur Kopit's controversial drama, "Indians," which was performed last year in the wake of the Wounded Knee incident at the University of Arizona, where Reid recently received a master's degree in stage technology.

The play, which made headlines due to its coincidental Arizona debut with Wounded Knee, depicts the passing of the Indian civilization in a far more different tone than the optimistic one of "Texas." Playwright Kopit, utilizing much of the actual Indian oral tradition, spills out the bitter tale of the red man hoodwinked out of his land by beads and fire-water by cunning government agents.

Upon performance in the scathing drama, one viewer asked Reid if he indeed was an Indian. When he replied in the negative, the questioner asked if Reid had perhaps lived among the red men. Another no. So convincing was Reid's portrayal.

With the opening of the eighth season of "Texas" this evening, Reid can watch the show with the eyeview of one of its makers. And perhaps he will remember those days back when as an usher he stood at the back of the theatre every evening and noted that no one show during the summer run was exactly like the other.

"That's the big difference between live performance and the taped and filmed things people are used to getting on television and at movies. At the theatre people are seeing everything for the first time and the last time," he says.

It's only natural that Reid, whose interests lie in all the arts — music, dance, drama and art — should finally come to rest in the field that embraces the whole concept of any show — technical direction.

A 1971 honor graduate of West Texas State University, Reid first came to the school from his hometown of Rochester, Tex. to study art. While at the university, he also participated as a member of the school orchestra, and belonged to Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, music fraternity.

And then, as an adventure, he tried out for one of the university's musicals. Dancing was the one field of art in which he had no formal training. But that didn't keep Reid from picking up steps from "Texas" choreographer Neil Hess, vigorously trained dancers, and performing side-by-side with veteran ballet performers in the show's rollicking western skits.

Direction, with emphasis on technical direction, soon became Reid's forte because that field seemed to encompass all of his hard-earned skills in the arts. Among his credits are direction and design of a WT presentation of Lillian Hellman's "Little Foxes," Arizona productions of Moliere's "Scapin," Ionesco's "Exit the King" (in English and in French), Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew" and a lighter showing of "No Time for Sergeants." He also performed directing chores for "Indians," as well as a "Texas" Originals presentation of "The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds."

Later this season, he will handle the direction of another Originals production. The troupe consists of "Texas" cast and crew members who each year take up a project of staging and performing their own show, usually a contemporary one which Panhandle residents do not ordinarily have the opportunity to see in community theaters.

The director's philosophy is simply that stage technology exists "to enhance the actors and their performances, and not to detract or draw spectators' attention away from them."

Reid says he finds technical direction of "Texas" particularly challenging, since the stagings of outdoor drama have to compete with the elements of rain, wind and dust. Sets have to be durable enough to withstand the wear and tear, not an easy task considering the awesome power of many a Panhandle gust.

"Texas" utilizes a relatively simple stage, with two side-stage panels on either side and only two big props — the ranch house of Uncle Henry and Calvin's dugout.

Sometimes the Palo Duro Canyon's wildlife attempt to steal the scenes. Legendary tales of snakes, deer and other creatures making unexpected entrances are rife among the show's members. Reid remembers an incident when he encountered a tarantula-turned-ham.

"It was right after one of the scenes and I was moving props off the stage. I saw the tarantula and stepped on it as I was moving off the stage. I got an ovation from the audience for doing it," he laughs.

Nature has provided "Texas" with its awesome canyon backdrop, painted in layers that represent thousands of years of unmatched artistry. Reid says that this handiwork simplifies his work a good deal.

Every theatre technician has his own book of cardinal tenets of do's and don'ts for the stage. Reid, for instance, shuns the color green for his interior scenes. His reason is that he doesn't think "that color looks good on stage." He favors brown strongly, though, because of its "neutrality."

The theatre-goer seldom realizes when he watches a performance that every minute detail of setting has been weighed carefully for effect.

"Most interiors in real life are light-colored," Reid explains, "but on stage they have to be toned down."

"On each interior, the set designer must 'splatter' the wall in another color. For instance a light blue wall might be splattered in different colors to give the appearance of texture. "Splattering," despite its connotation of haphazardness, is actually a very deliberate process that must comprehend the very mood the playwright had in mind for his work, Reid says.

In a stark drama, such as Ibsen's "Hedda Gabler," he says, colors have to be toned down. However, he adds, that in a light farce such as a Moliere comedy, the set designer can play with bright, cool colors like pink and white.

As a young director just embarking on a theatrical career, Reid is optimistic about the future of the theatre, despite the repeated forecasts of pessimists who say that the performing arts are still on the wane as people become more and more immersed in film and television.

"People who prefer the ease of being able to sit in their living rooms rather than go to the theatre are seeing essentially the same worn-out plots every week on television," Reid says.

For script writers, there simply aren't that many new ideas under the sun, Reid says, and when television hits on something new and good, like "All in the Family," it eats up material at an alarming rate.

"Eventually, television will just run out of things. And then people will turn to live performance. And if I were the audience, I'd be happier to know that I was seeing something for the first time — something that couldn't be thrown back by instant replay."

CHS Students Excell In Hundreds Of Activities

Canyon High School students participated in hundreds of activities last year and won just about that many honors for their efforts.

A survey conducted by Principal John Sommer indicates that most students at CHS participated in one kind of extracurricular activity or another and those who participated came out much of the time as the best in their activity.

The study indicates that in terms of success, the academic-oriented activities produced the most honors. Athletic-oriented activities reaped few honors.

While the varsity football team recorded only a 1-0 record, the track team, for example, placed second in district. The varsity basketballers racked up a 14-16 season, while the golfers came up third in the district.

The girls varsity basketball team of course, was another story. The girls won 29 and lost 6 and came in runner-up in the state, after winning the district and the regional championships. Girls on the team played on all-district and all-tournament teams.

The heaps of academic honors received by CHS students can be illustrated by the CHS band, which won honors in the UIL Marching Contest, placed a number of students on all-region and all-state bands and won various festival awards. Forty-five first division medals were won by CHS band students in the UIL solo and ensemble contests.

The choir had similar honors, being named honor choir at the WTSU choir clinic and the outstanding choir at a Galveston contest.

Students in the Future Farmers of America also received high ratings for animals shown in Canyon, Amarillo and Fort Worth. In addition, various judging teams won places in contests across the state.

In the University Interscholastic League spring meets, CHS students walked off with five first places, six second places, and five third places.

Office Requires

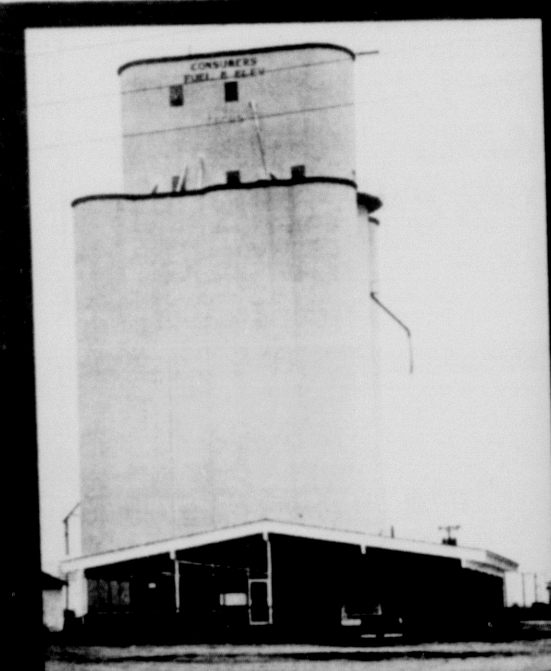

Motor Vehicle Title

Before an automobile or grain truck may be registered, the vehicle's title must be presented to the Tax Assessor's office in accordance with a requirement of the Texas Motor Vehicle Division, said Audrey Bruse, Randall County Tax Assessor-Collector.

The preprinted registration forms that were used during February, March and April will no longer be accepted by the Tax office.
